

The PCE fell to 2.64%, Fed Rate Cuts Get Closer, Consumer Sentiment Surges by 13.70%, and Wall Street closed mixed.

December 22, 2023

by Francisco Rodríguez-Castro frc@birlingcapital.com

The U.S. and European stock markets closed mixed ahead of the Christmas Holiday weekend as the markets welcomed the Personal Consumption Expenditures that fell to 2.64%, some 9.59% ahead of the inflation Nowcasting that forecasted 2.92%; also, the Core PCE fell to 3.16%, ahead of the 3.43% forecast by 7.87%.

The PCE at 2.64% is just 24.24% away from the Fed's 2% inflation target rate.

Both readings fell much more than estimates and reaffirm the narrative of interest rate cuts, which the Fed already said would be at least 75 basis points during 2024; the question is how soon?

It is worth noting that after adjusting for inflation, consumer spending accelerated during November, which supports the rising corporate profits.

Even with today's mixed results, all indexes ended the week with solid gains; let's see how the remainder of the month behaves.

Meanwhile, European markets also closed higher, and Asian markets were mixed.
